Huawei announced the date of the next major presentation – September 19. In Paris, the company will show new products, including Watch GT 6 smart hours.

Although the invitation does not mention a specific model, Tizer shows two devices at once, which confirms the debut of the series.

And this is already a pleasant tradition for Huawei – last year Watch GT 5 and Watch GT 5 Pro also presented it on September 19. Therefore, analysts expect a similar scenario this time-the basic version and Pro model.

There are no details about the characteristics yet, but according to rumors, the line will be released in two sizes: 41 and 46 mm. Probably, the manufacturer will improve autonomy and health sensors, as well as add new sports modes.

The Watch GT 5 Pro was estimated at the same time in the area of $ 250, so you can wait for the novelty in approximately the same price segment. Full specifications will become known closer to the presentation.
