

The iPhone 16 Pro models are expected to come in black, white or silver, gray or “Natural Titanium,” and rose, a shade of gold. Rumors suggest Apple will eliminate the blue titanium option that it used for the iPhone 15 Pro models and replace it with the rose gold color.

Another rumor suggests that Apple plans to use an improved process for finishing and coloring titanium, which will result in a glossier look than the brushed aluminum finish of the iPhone 15 Pro models. The glossy finish could look much more like the stainless steel that Apple used in prior years, but it will be more resistant to scratches.