

On November 25, the International University for the Humanities and Development of Turkmenistan began accepting applications from prospective students for undergraduate programs in Hungary and China for the 2025-2026 academic year. This was reported by the electronic newspaper “Turkmenistan: Golden Age.”

Candidates will undergo an interview in English on subjects from the full secondary education program. Young Turkmen students will study in the universities of the aforementioned countries in fields such as information technology, healthcare, education, engineering, mathematics, and natural sciences.

It should be noted that the decision to send Turkmen students to study at universities in China and Hungary was made on November 22 at a government meeting. President Serdar Berdimuhamedov emphasized the importance of comprehensive work in preparing high-level specialists.
