

Representatives of Turkmenistan took part in the IV Congress of Young Scientists, held in the federal territory “Sirius” in Sochi. The theme of the event was “Priorities of Scientific and Technological Development: Creating the Future Today.” This was reported by the electronic newspaper “Turkmenistan: Golden Age.”

The event was attended by young researchers, teachers, and winners of subject Olympiads from Russian cities and dozens of foreign countries. Turkmenistan was represented at the congress by teacher Kady Amanov and student Davud Dovletov from the Turkmen Agricultural University named after Saparmurat Niyazov, and teachers Mahmut Haidarov and Rahym Girmaev from the International University of Oil and Gas named after Yagshygeldi Kakayev.

The congress included round tables, expert sessions, and panel discussions. Participants discussed the latest developments in areas such as artificial intelligence, biotechnology, robotics, and energy-efficient technologies.