

On December 21, Turkmenistan's Vice Premier Bayramgul Orazdurdiyeva reported to President Serdar Berdimuhamedov at a government meeting about the preparation plans for the New Year celebration and schoolchildren's winter holidays.

The Deputy Prime Minister emphasized that from January 1 to 10, celebrations in honor of the New Year will be held in kindergartens, schools, and parks: performances and film screenings for children, creative competitions among youth, and excursions to historical and cultural sites and museums are planned. Additionally, there will be a ceremony to award the Gulbaba Prize to talented children. Young Turkmen citizens will also receive New Year gifts from the country's top leadership.

The head of state noted the need to hold New Year celebrations at a high level and to properly organize schoolchildren's leisure activities during the winter holidays.
