

The head of the investigation into Musk's company Neuralink was forcibly removed from the office

Fong was known for her expertise: she chaired the Council of Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency. She also oversaw disaster relief spending.

Fong's dismissal came amid an ongoing investigation into Neuralink, Elon Musk's company working on brain chip implants, which led some conspiracy theorists to suspect that her dismissal might be related to this.