

On January 14, in Ashgabat, Deputy Foreign Minister of Turkmenistan Ahmet Gurbanov met with his Italian counterpart Edmondo Cirielli. The parties held political consultations. This was reported by the press service of the Turkmen Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The interlocutors discussed the state and prospects of interstate cooperation, exchanged views on regional and international agendas. The diplomats also considered the issues of holding joint events within the framework of the “International Year of Peace and Trust.”

The parties noted the great opportunities for expanding trade and economic cooperation. In this regard, they emphasized the importance of holding meetings and forums between business representatives.

In addition, Ahmet Gurbanov and Edmondo Cirielli noted the significance of strengthening cooperation in the fields of archaeology, education, and culture, and confirmed their mutual commitment to intensifying political dialogue.