

The date for the anticipated event of the informal summit of the Turkic States Organization (TSO) presidents has been announced. The summit will take place from May 20 to May 22, 2025, in Hungary's capital, Budapest.

This TSO meeting is an important step toward strengthening inter-state cooperation, discussing political and economic issues, and advancing cultural and historical partnership. At the summit, leaders of member states, including heads of state, will hold high-level discussions and share their perspectives to outline new paths for cooperation in key areas.

Hosting the summit in Budapest will not only elevate the TSO's prestige on the international stage but also serve the goals of strengthening friendly ties among Turkic peoples. Through this meeting, states will aim to jointly address modern global challenges based on mutual interests.

The TSO Presidents' Summit will hold historical significance as a crucial part of the organization's clearly defined goals for future development and collaboration.
