

The Embassy of Azerbaijan launched an official website in Turkmen language

The Embassy of the Republic of Azerbaijan in Turkmenistan has expanded the accessibility of its official website by introducing a Turkmen language version. This update aims to enhance communication and provide better access to information for Turkmen speaking audiences.

According to the reports of the Embassy, as part of their ongoing efforts to improve accessibility and engagement, the Embassy has introduced a Turkmen language version of the Embassy's official website. This addition will allow Turkmen speaking visitors to easily access important updates, official announcements, and other relevant information. Moving forward, the Embassy will continue to enhance the platform by gradually adding new materials and resources to ensure a more comprehensive and informative experience for users. The newly launched Turkmen language section will provide readers with important updated materials, official statements and resources.
