

Oppo has announced the launch of the Pad SE tablet in China on May 15, unveiling it alongside the Reno 14 smartphone series. The new device is aimed at the mid-range market, combining affordability with solid specifications.

The Pad SE features an 11-inch LCD screen with a 2.4K resolution. The device is equipped with a 9340 mAh battery supporting 33W fast charging. The tablet runs on a MediaTek Helio G100 processor, with Android 15 and ColorOS 15 as its operating system.

It will be available in three configurations: 6GB + 128GB, 8GB + 128GB, and 8GB + 256GB. Buyers can choose between Starlight Silver and Night Blue, both featuring an anti-glare Soft Light Edition finish. The price has not been announced yet.
