

Representatives of the Mejlis of Turkmenistan participated to XI Nevsky International Ecological Congress via online

Representatives of the Mejlis of Turkmenistan participated to XI Nevsky International Ecological Congress held in St. Petersburg, Russian Federation via online on May 22-23, 2025.

This Congress has the motto «Planet Earth: Living in Harmony with Nature». Nevsky International Ecological Congress is organizing since 2008 in St. Petersburg.

In its platform discusses issues such as strengthening inter-parliamentary cooperation in ensuring environmental safety and harmonizing environmental legislation of countries, promoting healthy lifestyles, improving educational activities and inform the population in this area, and establishing an international agenda related to environmental safety policy in cooperation with specialized UN agencies.

During the Ecological Congress, sessions held on topics such as food security under the faced climate change, cooperation for the future in the Caspian Sea, and the ecology of large cities.

The representative of the Mejlis of Turkmenistan had a floor and noted our country's work carried out to ensure the ecological well-being, including the positive initiatives it is putting forward in the field of water diplomacy.