

A signing ceremony for more than two dozen agreements took place in Tashkent with representatives of Fujian Province, one of China's most rapidly developing regions, with a GDP of around $800 billion in 2024.

The agreements focus on expanding collaboration with leading Chinese companies, including Xiamen ITG Group, Fujian Xinwancheng Investment, Fujian Sitong Stone Company, and Fuzhou Fuqiang Precision. Joint projects in construction, mineral extraction, textile production, automotive manufacturing, and other sectors are at the center of attention.

Additionally, a separate agreement was signed between Uzbekistan's Foreign Investment Attraction Agency and organizers of the China International Investment and Trade Fair (CIFIT). This document aims to promote Uzbek projects among international investors and attract new investments into the country.

Earlier reports mentioned the launch of a new freight railway route between China and

Uzbekistan Expands Cooperation with One of China's Wealthiest Provinces

Uzbekistan.

