

American singer Jessica Lynn: "Ashgabat welcomed us warmly"

These days, the American rock band and singer Jessica Lynn are visiting the Turkmen capital. The guests performed concerts yesterday, July 5, at the "Turkmenistan" cinema-concert center, and today, July 6, at the "Arkach" shopping and entertainment center. The concerts brought together hundreds of residents and guests of the capital.

The events were organized by the U.S. Embassy in Turkmenistan, and the participation of Ambassador Elizabeth Rood herself added significance to the occasion. These events highlight the important role of cultural dialogue in Turkmen-American relations.

As background information, Jessica lives in New York and works as a teacher. She enjoys traveling, and Turkmenistan marks the 20th country the band has visited. The rock band is a family project involving Jessica’s relatives: her father (guitar), mother (keyboard and vocals), husband (bass guitar), and a family friend (drums). Although rock music isn’t currently very popular in New York, Jessica deeply enjoys it.
