

Almost 20 thousand Russian companies retained IT accreditation and the right to benefits

According to the results of the annual audit, almost 20 thousand Russian companies retained the IT accreditation, which gives the right to benefits: IT MIP, a deferred from military service for employees, tax preferences and others, writes the Ministry of Construction.

To confirm the status, the company annually submit an application through the public services portal. Among the preserved accreditation:

- More 15 thousand companies with revenue from IT activity above 70%, which allows them to pay reduced insurance premiums.
- Over 4 thousand organizations with IT income above 30%, a salary higher than the average for the region or Russia and with information about the IT activity on the site.

At the same time, about 1 thousand companies lost accreditation, as they did not apply or did not meet the criteria. The main reasons for the cancellation:

- Salary employees below the required level.
- Fate IT income less than 30%.
- Absence The company's site in Russian.

To re -receive accreditation, companies need to correct inconsistencies.
