

Apple gave Donald Trump a statuette made of glass and 24-karat gold

At a press conference in the White House dedicated to Apple Plans for Production in the United States, the head of the company Tim Cook handed President Donald Trump an unusual gift-a glass disc with the Apple logo based on 24-carat gold.

The disk is made of special glass, which is produced by Corning, which supplies glass for the iPhone. The name Trump is engraved on the upper part of the disk, and the signature of Tim Cook, the inscription "Made in the USA" and the year 2025. The design of the glass was developed by the former Corporation of the US Marine Corps, which now works in Apple. The base of the figurine is made of Utah's staff.

Recall that Trump threatened to introduce duties on phones if the production of Apple and other companies is not transferred to the United States.
