

After the release of the sixth beta version of the iOS 26 and iPadOS 26 operating systems for developers, Apple announced the third public beta iOS 26 and iPadOS 26 Public Beta 3.

The third public beta version is the successor of the sixth version for developers. Apple is expected to present the final iOS 26.0 and iPadOS 26.0 releases in September of this year. The probability of the release of intermediate updates such as iOS 26.0.1, as well as the beta versions of iOS 26.1 for developers next month, is not excluded.

The functional features and innovations presented in the sixth version for iOS 26 developers will also be available in the third public beta version. In parallel with the release of the updated version of the iOS 26 for developers, Apple provided access to the new public beta version of the operating system.

To participate in the public beta testing program iOS 26 and iPadOS 26, users can register on the official website Beta.Apple.com. Registration is free, and after connecting to a public beta version, the update option will automatically appear in the "Update PO" section on the device.
