

Betta Battlefield 6 only started, but the shooters have already flooded

In the beta version of Battlefield 6, players have already become complained about cheaters. These scammers see enemies through the walls, automatically aim and move faster than usual. Due to the cross-platform, the problems relate to everyone-both PC and console.

One video with such a cheater watched more than 7 million times. The video shows how Chiter sees opponents and allies in the form of colored cubes, as well as the location of enemy equipment. Dice has already banned this player, but the cheaters continue to appear.

To combat fraudsters, EA has introduced the Javelin protection system and requires the inclusion of Secure Boot on a PC - this is a special function that complicates the work of cheaters. But it is not perfect, and many players consider it difficult to set up. But on the Internet, cheats with constant updates are still sold, which are deceiving protection.

EA reports that Javelin has already blocked about 330 thousand troop attempts and is working on improving the system.
