

M. Video-Eldorado summed up the results of sales of vinyl players for the first half of 2025. Vinyl continues to grow interest in the analogous sound and aesthetics, and buyers are increasingly considering such devices not only for listening to music, but also as an element of decor.

In the first place in sales was the model Max VP-100 In the dark blue performance. This is a compact player in a retro-chamber style case equipped with built-in speakers and support for three reproduction speeds. The device can be connected to external acoustics, which makes it convenient for beginner users.

Maximum

The second place was taken by the same model Max VP-100 but in brown color. This option was especially popular among lovers of vintage technology, striving to recreate the atmosphere of the 60-70s. The popularity of both versions indicates a stable demand for inexpensive and aesthetically attractive devices.

Maximum

The third in the list was Lenco LS-101 - A player from the European brand with modern capabilities. The device is distinguished by the presence of a Bluetooth module, built-in columns and RCA output, which allows you to listen to music both by wires and wirelessly.

M. Video-Eldorado called the best-selling vinyl players of 2025

Lenco

Also, a compact Alive Audio MIM-01 which is often purchased as the first device or as a gift. It is light, minimalistic and equipped with basic functions, including AUX output.

Live audio

The five closes LS-50WD tongue - A player in a light wood body. The model supports Bluetooth and can work as a wireless acoustic system, combining analogue sound with modern formats.

M. Video-Eldorado called the best-selling vinyl players of 2025

Lenco