

Xiaomi officially confirmed the date of the announcement of Hyperos 3 – the new version of the shell will be presented today, August 28, in China.

Earlier there were rumors that the system would be released under the name Hyperos 26, but the company clarified: the update is based on Android 16. According to the head of the brand Lu Weinov, the novelty would bring improvements to the smoothness of the interface and general responsiveness, although specific details have not yet been disclosed.

Immediately after the presentation, a beta test starts, the first access to the system will be accessed by Xiaomi 15, Redmi K80 Pro/Ultimate Edition, as well as PAD 7S Pro 12.5 and Pad 7 Pro tablets. You can sign up through the center of internal tests in the Xiaomi community.

Thus, today users will see all the key innovations of the shell, and Xiaomi will continue the strategy for active software update, making a bet on Android 16 as a basis for their ecosystem.