

The head of Rostec, Sergei Chemezov, said that the first foreign orders were received by the fifth generation of the Fifth generation of the Su-57. According to him, foreign partners show a serious interest in the plane, the media write.

Chemezov noted that the competition in this area is high - the USA and other countries are developing their projects. However, the Russian Su-57 has an important difference: it is already used in real combat conditions. This, according to the head of the state corporation, confirms its effectiveness and makes it attractive to buyers.

Earlier, Aviation Expert Roman Gusarov said that thanks to modern Su-57 weapons and electronics, he became a serious threat to the Ukrainian military. He emphasized that the characteristics of the fighter give him an advantage over the Western F-16 and Mirage. The Su-57 versatility allows the use of a wide range of weapons-from planning bombs to hypersonic missiles.
