

The Huawei smart watch line will replenish in September

Huawei announced a presentation that will be held on September 19 in Paris. Although in the official announcement it is not called which devices will be shown, two smart hours are visible on the image in the post in the X.

Last year, the Watch GT 5 line was represented exactly on the same day of September. Then two models came out – the standard and the Pro version. Therefore, experts believe that the GT 6 series will also receive at least two options: ordinary and Pro.

There are no details about new products yet. However, rumors say that the clock will be produced in two sizes – 41 mm and 46 mm.

Closer to the September event, most likely, there will be more information about the functions and characteristics of the new hours.
