The Yaroslavl Region was one of the advanced regions of Russia in terms of digitalization of the public procurement system. According to the results of the national rating compiled by the relevant association, the region divided the first place with other subjects of the Federation.

Governor Mikhail Evraev connected this success with the systematic work on the implementation of modern technologies. The region has its own information system, ensuring transparency of all stages of procurement procedures.

The key advantage of the system was its integration with federal platforms – a single information system in the field of procurement and GIS "Bidding". This solution allows you to automate processes and minimize possible violations.

Earlier at the VI All -Russian Forum "Digital Evolution", Minister of Digital Development of the Russian Federation Maksut Shadaev He called it Kaluga region of one of the leaders in the introduction of digital decisions. According to him, the region demonstrates success in the digitalization of healthcare, education and government.
