

New approvals reflect the country's structured and transparent migration policy

Turkmenistan has officially granted residency permits to 142 foreign nationals, signaling a steady approach to migration governance and expanding international engagement.

The recipients include professionals, family members, and individuals seeking long-term residence in Turkmenistan. According to official sources, all permits were issued in accordance with national legislation.

“This decision promotes respect for human rights and enriches cultural diversity within the community,” said migration policy experts.

«THE ASHGABAT TIMES».